BIOGRAPHY

Béatrice joined LCM Attorneys in 2024 as a law student. She is currently pursuing a Bachelor of Laws degree at Université de Montréal. Throughout her education, she has developed a keen interest in many areas of law, including public and administrative law, civil and commercial litigation, and civil liability.

Sensitized to the issue of access to justice from the very start of her university studies, she became involved with the Hochelégal organization as a student volunteer, then took on the role of coordinator of Pro Bono Students Canada for the Université de Montréal. She subsequently worked as a legal intern at the Centre des femmes de Rivière-des-Prairies. Active in the school community, she has also been involved with the Diversity Committee for the past two years.

She has recently developed a strong passion for public speaking, which manifested itself in her winning two pleading prizes in the Charles-Rousseau Competition. This experience has been highly instructive, enabling her to expand her knowledge in a variety of legal fields and gain an international perspective.

In her spare time, Béatrice enjoys long-distance running and rock climbing. Passionate about the arts, she plays multiple instruments and enjoys reading.
